Three Lectures from Stony Brook Dental Residents

Dr. Justine Inzero (Pediatrics)

Title: The Slippery Slope of Pediatric Dental Trauma: When the Incisor Meets the Road

Learning Objectives - Following this presentation the learner will be able to:

1. refer to AAPD/IADT trauma management guidelines available via open access
2. apply AAPD/IADT trauma management guidelines in the treatment of tooth fractures and avulsions
3. manage soft tissue trauma with child and adolescent patients

Dr. Justine Inzero, a second-year pediatric dental resident at Stony Brook University, grew up across the Long Island Sound in Seymour, Connecticut. She earned her Bachelor of Science in Nutrition from the University of Connecticut and her dental degree from Boston University, where she developed a passion for pediatric dentistry through volunteer service and clinical rotations. Dedicated to providing individualized care and education to patients and parents, Dr. Inzero plans to return to Connecticut following residency to serve her community in private practice.

Dr. Byung Nahm (Prosthodontics)

Title: Optimizing Restorative Space in Comprehensive Prosthodontic Treatments

Learning Objectives:

1. Identify common pitfalls in full-mouth rehabilitation and their impact on restorative outcomes
2. Understand essential techniques for accurate space analysis during treatment planning process
3. Explore effective strategies to address challenges posed by limited restorative space for predictable treatment outcome

Dr. Byung Min Nahm graduated from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in 2018 and served two years in the Republic of Korea Army, including a deployment with the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL). After passing the Korean Board Examination and working in private practice, he completed a one-year General Practice Residency at Stony Brook University Hospital. Currently the chief resident in the Stony Brook Postgraduate Prosthodontics Program, Dr. Nahm is dedicated to advancing prosthodontics and providing exceptional patient care.

Dr. Kyle Reeves (Oral & Maxillofacial Radiology)

Title: Explanations Not Excuses- Using Your Imaging for Better Communication Before Treatment

Learning Objectives:

1. Review Examples of 2D and 3D Radiographic Anatomy That May Have Clinical Implications
2. Assess Examples of Pathology That May Have Clinical Implications
3. Consider Verbal and Written Informed Consent Guidelines Based On Imaging Findings

Dr. Reeves owned and operated a small, four operator fee-for-service general dental practice in the Fort Worth, Texas area upon graduating with his DDS from the University of Texas Health Science Center San Antonio in May of 2000 until he sold the practice in April of 2022 due to medical issues that affected his ability to practice general dentistry. He also consulted for the Texas State Board Dental Examiners Dental Review Panel from 2017-2022 writing opinions from the perspective of a practicing general dentist on various clinical issues related to public board complaints. In July of 2023, he began a new chapter of his career and changed jobs when he began an oral and maxillofacial radiology residency at Stony Brook School of Dental Medicine. Dr. Reeves enjoys spending time with his family, traveling, outdoor activities, watching YouTube videos and reading.
